

ments for each line. The building has much floor and shelf space, which makes it possible to handle the capacity of business transacted here. People are attracted from miles around, and they can be assured of good selection because all departments are complete."

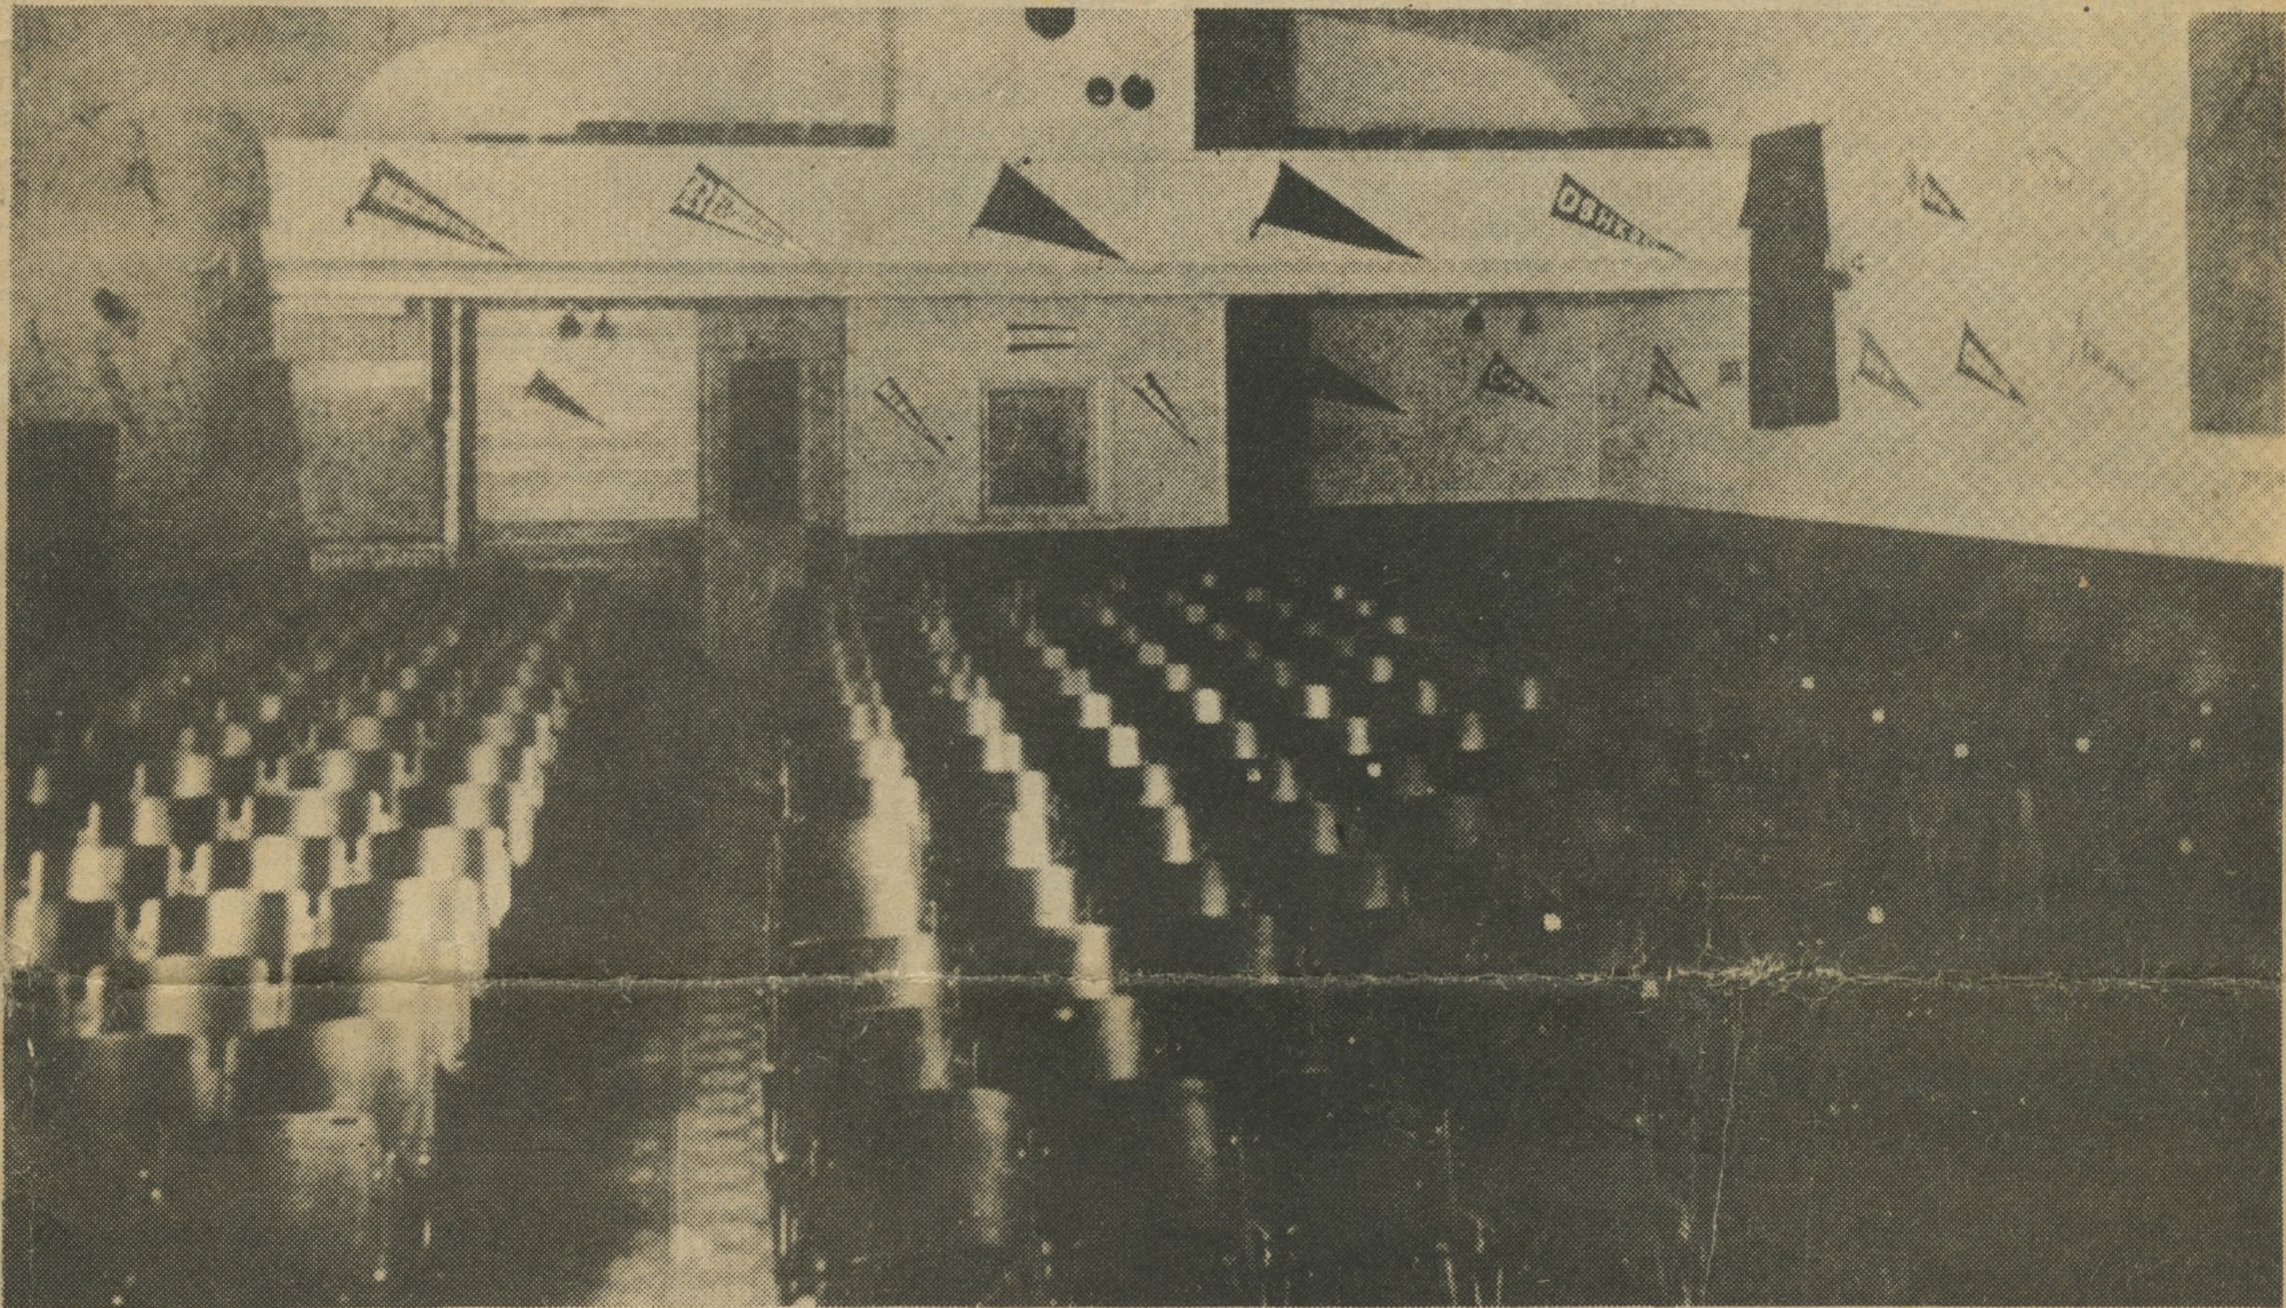

Members of the Holst family, in the top photo, from left, were Hugo Holst, Arthur Holst, Anna Bhenke, Ruth Holst, Emma Bhenke, Mrs. Augusta Holst, Ida Bartel Luedtke, and an unidentified clerk.

The store was sold to George Krause in December 1963, and he operated a store there about seven years before constructing the present Krause's Shopping Center across Main St., and about a block east of the original location. The original store has been razed.

Hattie Kadow Meineke, who worked in for the Holst store for 40 years, still resides in Mishicot.

fits, but instead, for moral and up-to-date amusement, so as to boost the town. All pictures shown here are passed by The National Board of Censorship. The members of this company are all home boys. The place has an inclined floor, a feature not seen in many of our neighboring cities. The room in which the machine is operated, is lined with galvanized iron, over which asbestos is put, thus insuring perfect safety in regard to danger from fire."

The booklet also had pictures of the State Bank of Mishicot, founded in 1910; Mishicot Telephone Co. repair crew for the company organized in 1909; power house of dam of Mishicot Electric Light and Power Plant; generators in the power house of the electric light company; water wheel and switchboard in power house; Mishicot Brewing Co., grist and saw mill; Mishicot Opera House; Mishicot baseball and basketball teams of 1912.

Interior of Mishicot's Elite Theater

Kirst's Garage crew and customers

Art Holst

Mike Kirst